Beyond an arena

- Larger special tax area could benefit the entire downtown: Report
- Downtown Edmonton 1 per cent of city's land, 10 per cent of property value: City official

Increasing the boundary for a proposed tax area downtown could help fund more than just an arena, city officials say.

An expanded community revitalization levy (CRL) was unveiled in a report Thursday, encompassing 97 Street west to 109 Street, and north from about 100 Avenue to 106 Avenue.

"It's more than just the small area that has been discussed," said Gary Klassen, general manager of sustainable development. "It outlines $366 million worth of initiatives that can be considered by council."

The proposed CRL, using future property tax to pay for new infrastructure, should generate $1.2 billion over 20 years, including $241 million in education taxes.

The report states $45 million could still go to the arena, and another $52 million to land, LRT and a pedway for the arena project. Other money could be put toward already planned for and

Downtown renewal

► The city said an extra levy wouldn't be imposed on the residences and businesses inside the CRL boundary, but that taxes may rise because of increased assessment and property value.

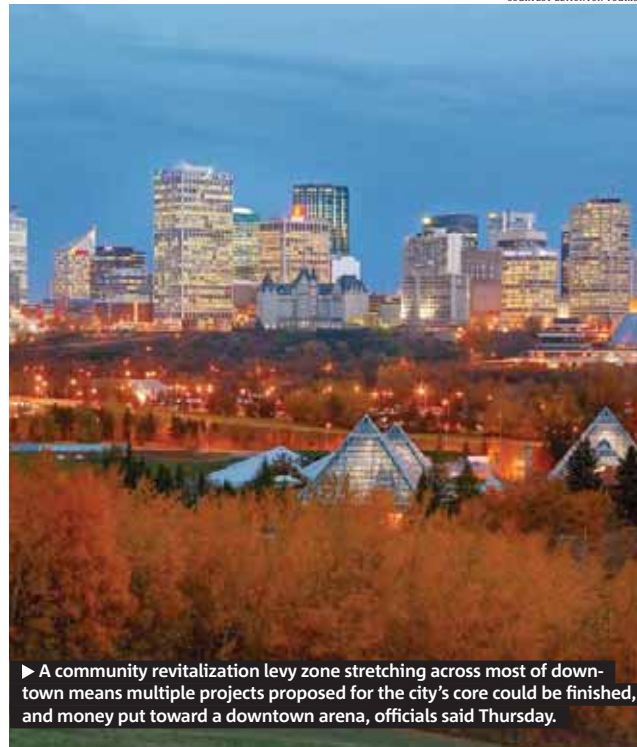

► Some of the 10 projects outlined for downtown include a new vision for Jasper Avenue, housing and a park in the Warehouse district, a new bikeway system, and paving and streetscape improvements.

desired downtown projects, which Coun. Amarjeet Sohi said fit better with the approved plan for the city's core.

Coun. Bryan Anderson said the CRL is worth looking at due to projected provincial and federal deficits and the upcoming capital budget, but stopped short of calling it necessary.

"There would be money from the smaller area for three or four of the other projects in this report," he said.

Council will discuss the report Wednesday.

► A community revitalization levy zone stretching across most of downtown means multiple projects proposed for the city's core could be finished, and money put toward a downtown arena, officials said Thursday.

No sentence review: Court

► Court rules against revisiting the sentences of men convicted in 2005 Mountie slayings

The Supreme Court of Canada says it won't review the sentences of two men who pleaded guilty to manslaughter in the shooting deaths of four Alberta RCMP officers.

Dennis Cheeseman and Shawn Hennessey admitted they gave gunman James Roszko a rifle and a ride back to his farm the night before he ambushed four Mounties near May-erthorpe in 2005.

The officers were staking out a marijuana grow-op and auto chop-shop that had been discovered on his property.

Hennessey was sentenced to 15 years in prison, while Cheeseman got 12 years. But their jail times were reduced by the trial judge because they pleaded guilty and spent time in pretrial custody.

The two unsuccessfully asked the Alberta Court of Appeal to further shorten their sentences. Their lawyers argued the punishment was too severe.

The men, who are brothers-in-law, said they feared for their own safety and that of their families if they didn't help Roszko.

The Supreme Court, as is customary, gave no reasons for its decision Thursday.

Constables Anthony Gordon, Leo Johnston, Brock Myrol and Peter Schiemann were killed by Roszko on March 3, 2005. Roszko killed himself after being shot by another Mountie.

Measles alert response less than infectious

After issuing a public advisory about the exposure potential for hundreds to the highly contagious red measles, Alberta Health Services is disappointed with the scarcity of calls to HealthLink.

Dr. Marcia Johnson, AHS medical officer of health, warned of the infection threat this week after it was discovered a Vancouver-Edmonton passenger aboard Air Canada Flight

2 Measles, which can be spread by coughing and sneezing, can stay airborne for two hours.

AC244 may have exposed others on the flight and at the airport to the measles Aug. 15. Kerry Williamson, AHS spokesperson, said HealthLink has only logged about 90 calls regarding people's infection risks.

Toddler death probe reveals barriers

► Concerns expressed two months prior to tragedy ► Youngster's killer remains free ► New child and family services council to be established

JEREMY NOLA
@METRONEWS.CA

Police, social workers and health officials were all concerned for the well-being of a 14-month-old Calgary toddler before she died, but a new report suggests inter-system delays prevented them from taking custody of her.

Social services first became aware of safety concerns expressed by the grandmother of Sarvia Elizabeth Velasquez 61 days before she died in May 2010.

A timeline released Thursday as part of an external panel review into the incident details numerous injuries suffered by the toddler, as well as issues surrounding the investigation into her domestic circumstances.

"It was a series of gaps and delays and miscommunications," said Dr. Gayla Rogers, chair of the review panel.

Emotions ran high as Yvonne Fritz, who ordered the review, addressed the media Thursday.

Sarvia's grandparents attended and interrupted the minister publicly to express outrage over perceived inaction to save the toddler.

Investigation

► A police spokesperson told reporters that the homicide investigation into the death of Sarvia Elizabeth Velasquez is ongoing.

► The mother and an acquaintance were caring for the child when she was rushed to hospital and later died of asphyxiation in May 2010.

"There were some big mistakes made, they have addressed them and hopefully they won't happen again," grandfather Bruce Anderson later told reporters.

"They didn't acknowledge us."

Fritz said the province is adopting all 11 recommendations made by the review panel, each of which aims to improve communication between all groups involved in child welfare.

The province is also establishing an independent Child and Family Services Council for Quality Assurance.

► The Alberta government has put hold on a fee for licence-plate searches, which means parking fines in Edmonton could stay as they are.

Province to ditch vehicle-search fees

► Was expected to cost the city $10.3M annually

HEATHER MCINTYRE

Fees for motor vehicle searches have been parked by the province.

The $15 fee per search, brought in April 1 then delayed to Sept. 1, met much opposition from municipalities and police associations.

"Cabinet did decide to suspend the search fee and we will consider it as part of next year's budget review process," Service Alberta spokesperson Sharon Lopatka said Thursday.

was expected this year to cover the province's costs associated with providing the data.

The fee was expected to cost the city $10.3 million annually, $4.4 million of which could be covered by increased parking fines. The remaining money is attributable to photo enforcement.

"I think they did the right thing; it really was an unfair way of doing it," said Coun. Tony Caterina.

"If they want to discuss it for 2012-13, that makes much more sense."

Prior to the announcement, a city report released Thursday suggested a $15 increase to parking fines to offset the fee.

Caterina said he wouldn't be surprised if administration still comes forward with the request but doesn't think the fines should be hiked.

"It has to be built into our budget," he said. "I would prefer finding $4.5 million worth of savings somewhere else."

RCMP probing woman's disappearance from city

SHELLEY WILLIAMSON

Fort Saskatchewan RCMP and family members are hoping the public's help can bring a happy ending to the search for a 31-year-old woman last seen Aug. 14.

Dana Jane Turner was last seen at the Quality Inn West Harvest in Edmonton around 7 a.m. with an unknown man. She was reported missing Aug. 16.

RCMP spokesperson Const. Martin Miville said police are working with her family, who consider Turner's disappearance "very out of character".

"We are very concerned," said Miville, adding tips have started trickling in during the last few days about Turner's possible whereabouts.

Miville would not say if police believe Turner met with foul play or what role the man she was last seen with might have played in her disappearance two weeks ago.

Anyone with information is asked to call Fort Saskatchewan RCMP at 780-992-6100 or Crime Stoppers at 1-800-222-8477(TIPS).

What is known

- Dana Turner was reportedly driving a rental car from Discount, a blue Mazda A31 with four doors and Alberta licence plate # J22840 when she disappeared.
- Friends have created a Facebook site, The Search for Dana Turner, which had over 300 members and hundreds of posts by Thursday.
- Dana Turner is described as standing five-foot-seven, weighing 155 pounds, with medium brown curly hair. The mother of three was last seen wearing a brown jacket and blue jeans.
- Posts on the Facebook site dedicated to her say her cellphone's last known location was in the Crossfield or Calgary area, and her credit cards have not been used.

Alberta Liberals open up leader vote to supporters

The Alberta Liberals are calling a recent voting experiment a huge success.

The party opened up voting for its leader to all Liberal supporters, not only party members.

The Liberals say that means tens of thousands more votes than in the last leadership race.

By the time online and telephone registration was capped last week, the party had signed up more than 24,500 supporters.

Party spokesman Josipa Petronic says this could be the game-changer that puts the party back on the map.

The voting method is used in some American primaries, but it's never been done in Canada.

"What we've done is blow the doors open," says the Liberal party's Corey Hogan. "We've said come on in, stay as long as you want and get involved in the process."

The Liberal party will also accept walk-ins for the next few weeks and has nearly 4,000 paying members set to cast a ballot as well.

Creating a 'bucket list' for Edmonton

23-year-old who moved here from Ottawa last month wants to know 'what makes Edmonton tick'

HEATHER MCINTYRE
@METRONEWS.CA

Instead of compiling a list of 1,000 to do in his life, Patrick Jackson has decided to seek advice regarding a "bucket list" of things to do in Edmonton over the next three months.

About a week ago, through his account on reddit.com, he began asking Edmontonians what he should put on his bucket list.

"My goal is simple: I want to do as many things as I can, as long as I can, on the most minimal budget," said Jackson. "I want to learn what makes Edmonton tick at the community level."

List guidelines

- Patrick Jackson's job has to accommodate his needs. He has mild cerebral palsy.
- Some of the same needs are set out as "rules" for his bucket list: Activities must include accessibility by bus, be wallet friendly, end no later than 11 p.m. and not have drinking as the central theme of the event.

While bucket lists are known to be made by people facing death, that is not Jackson's cause. His time frame is simply a rough estimate of how long he may be here, as he will consider returning to Ottawa if he cannot find a suitable job. "I'm collecting what people tell me," Jackson said. "The best people to talk to about what to do here are the people who live here."

Jackson's first taste of walking the streets of downtown Edmonton was when he was dressed as a Jedi on the Animethon float in the Capital Ex parade.

"I met Edmonton head on — waving and smiling at thousands of people," he said. "There are a lot of songs out there that mention the idea of a welcome parade, and that's exactly what this felt like."

Anyone who would like to suggest something for Jackson's list can send Not_Actually_Here a message on reddit.com or email justpatrickjackson@gmail.com.

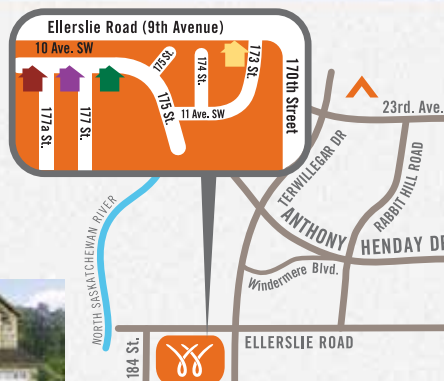

Patrick Jackson sits next to a bucket at city hall on Thursday.

HOSPITAL VIOLENCE

Stabbing report touts changes

A report into the stabbing death of a psychiatric patient in an Edmonton hospital says new policies are already in place to improve the safety of patients and staff.

On the early morning of July 30, 2007, Dwayne Roy was asleep in a ward at the Royal Alexandra hospital when he was stabbed seven times by another patient, who then tried to strangle him and then stomped on his head. Roy's skull was crushed.

Jean Sheehy, the psychiatric patient who stabbed Roy, was charged with second-degree murder but was later found to be not criminally responsible for the death.

Sheehy believed Roy wanted to kill him, and "there is little doubt," the report reads, "that the attack on Mr. Roy was based upon the delusional thinking of Mr. Sheehy."

In the fatality inquiry report, Judge Lawrence Anderson notes a review following the death recommended the belongings of psychiatric patients must be searched whenever they come to a hospital for treatment.

He also says medical staff must now regularly assess the risk a patient poses to others.

In the report, Anderson says these hospital changes are "prudent" and says there are no other recommendations he can make to prevent similar deaths in the future.

Police are crediting a big cocaine and methamphetamine bust and the arrests of four men linked to organized crime with keeping Edmonton's streets safer.

"We're alleging this particular group was rather sophisticated and they were bringing in larger quantities of cocaine and had the materials available to buff out and re-brink," said Insp. Greg Preston, in charge of organized crime with the Edmonton drug and gang enforcement unit.

"Buffing" the drugs means mixing pure cocaine with filler to increase the profit margin,

Quite the catch

► Seized from two north-end homes were a 30-tonne hydraulic press; one kilogram of methamphetamine; four kilograms of cocaine, eight kilograms of buff; 10 grams of marijuana; $64,000 cash; plus weapons and 85 packaging wrappers.

said Preston.

Preston said the bust is large enough to cause distribution troubles for the group.

The bust has no link to an eight-kilogram seizure by the Alberta Law Enforcement Response Team (ALERT) this week, Preston noted.

Police catch city's mischief-maker

Edmonton police proved yesterday that it doesn't pay to play tag around this city.

A record number of mischief charges were laid against a 19-year-old in connection with a city-wide spree of graffiti tagging.

Jeffrey Randall Knoll faces 176 mischief charges, and could face more as Strathcona County RCMP are also investigating Knoll's alleged artistry.

Acting Sgt. Gerald Jorgenson of the EPS Graffiti Project, along with his partner, Const. Ryan Katchur, spent hours cracking the graffiti case.

10 Fifty per cent of the tagging in the city's top neighbourhoods are perpetrated by 10 taggers, according to a recent graffiti audit

"For the most part, (suspects) are doing it in the cover of darkness and it's difficult to apprehend these people," Jorgenson said.

Citizens are asked to call 311 or 911 if they see graffiti vandalism in progress around the city.

Knoll could face several thousand dollars in fines and community-service hours if convicted.

Citing dry conditions and hot forecasts, the province has issued fire bans for forests and many provincial parks in southern Alberta.

In provincial parks and recreation areas, these fire bans prohibit wood, briquette and propane/natural gas fires, including in designated fire facilities and portable fire pits.

Gas and propane stoves and barbecues for cooking are allowed.

The ban also prohibits fireworks, burn barrels and fire pits.

Irene: Nice name, wicked storm

► U.S. east and even the Maritimes bracing for weekend misery ► Thousands flee North Carolina beach towns in 'nightmare scenario' ► Obama declares emergency ► U.S. economy threatened ► Bahamian homes flattened

LYNNE SLADKY/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Monstrous hurricane Irene tightened her aim on the Eastern Seaboard late Thursday, threatening 65 million people along a path from North Carolina to New England and even the Maritimes.

One of America's top weather experts called it his "nightmare" scenario.

And U.S. President Barack Obama acted fast, declaring an emergency for North Carolina and ordering federal aid.

Tens of thousands of people fled North Carolina beach towns, farmers pulled up their crops, and the navy ordered ships to sea so they could endure the punishing winds and waves in open water.

The storm with winds of 185 km/h would be the strongest to strike the East Coast in seven years.

Beware, Canada

► Hurricane Irene is expected to track through New England and the Maritimes this weekend and into Monday.

► Halifax-based Canadian Hurricane Centre says it's still too early to say what kind of impact it could have on Eastern Canada.

All eyes were on Irene's projected path, which showed her bringing misery to every city along the I-95 corridor, including Washington, New York and Boston.

Jack Layton's last ride ... home to the city he loved

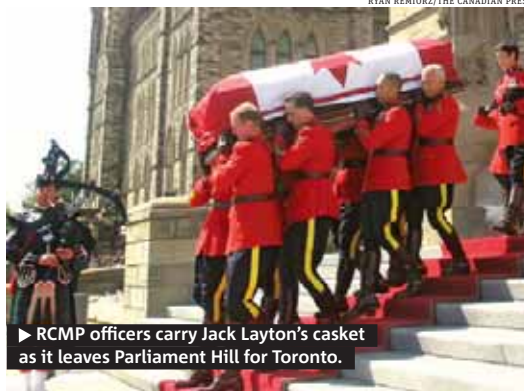

Cannon fire crashed over Parliament Hill and car horns sounded a noisy tribute along the Highway of Heroes on Thursday as a cortege ferried Jack Layton's coffin from the pinnacle of his political career to the place where it all began.

After a 15-gun sendoff outside the House of Commons and a symbolic trip across the Ottawa River to Quebec, the province of his birth, the late NDP leader arrived home in Toronto, the city that has embraced him as a favourite son.

Dozens of people, many ringing bells or honking the horns on their bicycles, were on hand as the hearse arrived at Toronto City Hall late Thursday.

They broke into spontaneous applause and cheered and the motorcade slowed to a halt, and again when a Toronto police honour guard carried Layton's cof-

Britain's government and police met social media executives Thursday to discuss how to prevent their services from being used to plot violence.

But authorities did not seek new powers to shut down Facebook, Twitter or BlackBerry Messenger in times of crisis.

The four days of rioting, triggered by a fatal police shooting in London on Aug. 4, were the worst civil disturbances to hit Britain since the 1980s and left a trail of looted stores and torched cars in several English cities.

Who's bugging your cellphone?

► Privacy commissioner warns Canadians: Protect your digital devices ► Only four in 10 use passwords

Text messaging may help quiet the hum of public cellphone conversations — but it may be just as vulnerable to eavesdropping.

Canada's privacy commissioner says Canadians aren't doing enough to protect their mobile communication devices, such as cellphones and tablet computers.

A survey by the commissioner's office suggests only four in 10 people password-protect their phones or adjust privacy settings on personal-information sharing via downloaded applications.

People who actually store personal information on their devices were more likely to use privacy measures.

"We encourage people to use passwords, encryption, privacy settings and every other available measure to safeguard their personal information, because the meaningful protection of privacy has to start with the individual," Commissioner Jennifer Stoddart said.

Use the tools

► Canadians between the ages of 18 and 34 were found to be the most enthusiastic users of technology but also the most likely to use available tools to protect their privacy online.

► "This new data shows (young people) not only care about privacy, they are actually leaders in protecting it," Stoddart said.

Canadians are increasingly worried about their privacy in a digital environment.

The survey found that levels of concern about a range of technologies and applications, including cellphones, online banking, and credit- and debit-card transactions, all rose since 2009.

Two thousand people were surveyed for the commissioner's poll, which has a margin of error of plus or minus 2.2 per cent points, 19 times out of 20.

It was conducted between Feb. 23 and March 6, just as outrage in Britain over a tabloid newspaper hacking into people's cellphones began to grow. In that case, reporters broke into people's voice mail messages and investigations continue into whether reporters also had phone-tracking records.

The scandal ultimately brought down one of the country's oldest newspapers.

The survey found that more than half of Canadians have concerns related to social-networking sites, but most take advantage of available privacy controls.

Eight in 10 Canadians also said in the survey that Internet companies should ask permission to track how users spend their time online.

Tweet this: 'Fist bump' gets into top dictionary

Here's something for your Twitter feed: "Tweet" has earned a spot in the Merriam-Webster Collegiate Dictionary.

The word describing a post made on the online Twitter message service is among more than 100 new terms revealed Thursday for the dictionary publisher's newest edition.

Newcomers include "fist bump," a hip alternative to the high-five, and the "boomerang child" who has returned home in adulthood due to a lack of cash.

Other new words for 2011 in Merriam-Webster include terms heavily influenced by new technology, like m-commerce (business transactions conducted by using a mobile device); and by sports.

The wordsmiths at the Springfield, Massachusetts-based dictionary publisher said they picked the new entries after monitoring their use over several years and watching for references in a variety of sources, like mainstream media.

Sewers run red in Libya's capital

► Intense battles erupt near Gadhafi's seized Tripoli compound ► Libyan leader calls for destroying rebels

The streets where rebel fighters bombarded snipers loyal to Moammar Gadhafi were strewn with bullet-ridden corpses from both sides Thursday. Streams of blood ran down the gutters and turned sewers red.

By sundown the rebels appeared to have won the battle for the Abu Salim neighbourhood, next to Gadhafi's captured Tripoli compound, but the fallen dictator continued to elude them. Speaking from an unknown location, he exhorted his supporters to fight on.

"Don't leave Tripoli for the rats. Fight them, and kill them," Gadhafi said in a new audio message broadcast on Al-Orouba TV, a Syria-based satellite station.

Outside his Bab al-Aziziya compound, which rebels captured Tuesday, there was another grim scene — one that suggested mass, execution-style killings of civilians.

Rebels have seized most of Tripoli since sweeping into the capital on Sunday, and on Thursday they announced that their leadership was moving into the capital. The rebel National Transitional Council has been based in the eastern city of Benghazi, which fell to rebel forces early in the conflict. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A surprising find

- Libyan rebels who took control of Moammar Gadhafi's sprawling compound found in one of the buildings a photo album with pictures of Condoleezza Rice.
- Over the years, Gadhafi's comments about the former secretary of state have raised a few eyebrows.
- "I support my darling black African woman," he said in an interview with Al-Jazeera in 2007. "I admire and am very proud of the way she leans back and gives orders to the Arab leaders ... Leeza, Leeza, Leeza ... I love her very much."

Ottawa man killed while storming Gadhafi compound

A 24-year-old IT worker who left his job in Ottawa to work with Libyan rebels has been killed while storming a compound believed occupied by Moammar Gadhafi, his friend says.

Haitham Alabadleh of Ottawa said his friend, Nader Benrewin, had been shot and killed Tuesday by one of Moammar Gadhafi's snipers.

"He was leading the group and the snipers saw that he was the assistant of the leader. They started to target him and there was no place to hide," said Alabadleh.

Alabadleh learned about his friend's death through a Facebook post from contacts in Libya.

"I was crying for a bit and I remembered all the good times we (had)," said Alabadleh.

But while one Ottawa man died in the turmoil of the Libyan conflict another has reportedly escaped harm.

Mahdi Nazemroaya, a University of Ottawa graduate and independent journalist, escaped from the Rixos Al Nasr hotel in Tripoli Wednesday with other international reporters.

He is now trying to return to Canada.

His mother, Pouran Asgari, said she was relieved that he made it to the Corinthia hotel, which she says is in a safer part of the Libyan capital.

"But until he's out of that region, we have some concern," she said.

Senior suspected of sex crimes against disabled daughters

An 80-year-old man was arrested Thursday on suspicion of sexually abusing his two mentally disabled daughters for 41 years, and beating and threatening them to keep them subservient.

Apple's loss won't help RIM?

The resignation of Apple CEO Steve Jobs won't provide Research In Motion with the opportunity it needs to recover market share that its BlackBerry devices lost to the iPhone and iPad, analysts say.

RIM's best hope is to deliver new, consumer-friendly BlackBerry smartphones on time and without problems, they say.

Apple is working on a new iPhone. Any effect of Jobs' departure won't be seen until 2013, says Sascha Segan of PC Magazine. "One thing that Apple understands that RIM hasn't understood recently is: you never get a second chance to make a first impression," she said.

If the new BlackBerrys offer a "dramatically" better multimedia and apps experience and Apple offers "less salesmanship" without Jobs, then RIM would be stronger, Segan said. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Seduce the geeks, then the masses

It's easy to forget now, but Apple's magnetism was once confined to a cult-like following of geeks seduced by elegance and simplicity.

Apple has emerged as a trendsetter and a wealth-making machine.

Apple has left a mark that extends beyond that first personal computer introduced 35 years ago. Apple has transformed the music, retailing, marketing and cellphone industries and is engineering another evolution: the iPad tablet.

Jobs assembled a team with a knack for anticipating and popularizing trends. Jobs' rescued a company from bankruptcy, elevating it into the second most valuable business in the U.S. The last test for Jobs' may come as he tries to pass on his touch to Tim Cook.

With Steve Jobs bowing out as CEO, Apple Inc. must persuade investors and consumers that it doesn't need the force behind the iMac, iPod, iPhone and iPad in charge to keep hits coming.

Tim Cook, his hand-picked successor, has handled the top job repeatedly in the absence of the ailing Jobs, 56, who resigned as chief executive Wednesday and was elected chairman of Apple's board. Cook had been running Apple since January. The company's stock rose 62 per cent when Cook was in charge in the first half of 2009, and it gained 8 per cent since Jobs' most recent leave.

On Thursday, Apple's stock fell $4.03, or about 1 per cent, to $372.16 in midday trading, but the entire market was down as well.

Jeff Gamet, managing editor of news site The Mac Observer, said Jobs' departure has more sentimental than practical significance.

"All Apple really has done is made official what they've been doing administratively for a while now," he said.

But Trip Chowdhry, Global Equities Research analyst, said Jobs' maniacal attention to detail is what has set Apple apart. He predicts that the company will eventually struggle to create market-changing ideas.

"Apple is Steve Jobs, Steve Jobs is Apple, and Steve Jobs is innovation," Chowdhry said. "Apple without Steve Jobs is nothing." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Best-selling author to release e-book

Stephen King is back in the e-book game. The horror master is releasing a short story in digital format only. Scribner announced yesterday that Mile 81, a chilling story set at a rest stop on the Maine Turnpike, will go on sale Sept. 1 at a suggested price of $2.99.

The new book will also include an excerpt from King's upcoming novel, 11/22/63.

Klout, a San Francisco-based website that helps measure online influence, will allow some users to download Mile 81 for free.

King has a long history of writing stories as e-exclusives.

Nokia markets cheap cellphones

► Cellphone manufacturer claims 1.3 billion daily users

Nokia on Thursday unveiled its two cheapest cellphones to date, aimed at attracting users in the low-end market as it fights increasing competition from Asian manufacturers.

The Nokia 100 and 101, priced $20 and $25 respectively, will be available in the third and fourth quarters of the year.

The launch comes a day after Nokia announced three new mass-market smartphones, including what it called the world's smallest touch-screen smartphone and one with the world's brightest display.

The Finland-based company is being increasingly squeezed in the low-end market by Asian manufacturers like ZTE and in the high end by the makers of smartphones like Apple Inc.'s iPhone and Research in Motion's BlackBerry.

The Nokia 100, a basic handset for calls and sending text messages, features a colour display with a grid-based menu system and an FM radio.

The Nokia 101 has dual SIM device, enabling users to connect to two different networks to receive calls and messages. It also has an FM radio, integrated MP3 player and supports 16-gigabyte microSD memory cards. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Canadians getting fatter cheques

The average weekly earnings of non-farm payroll employees increased 0.3 per cent in June to $876.27.

They were three per cent higher than last year.

Statistics Canada reports the annual increase reflects a number of factors, such as wage growth and changes in the composition of employment by industry, by occupation and by level of job experience.

CHANGING THE WORLD, ONE LEADER AT A TIME

THE METRO LIST

PAUL SULLIVAN
METRO

So much is happening this week, I may have to drop Kim Kardashian's wedding.

1 Goodbye, Mr. Layton: Jack leaves Parliament Hill one last time, not before leaving us with some words to live by: "My friends, love is better than anger. Hope is better than fear. Optimism is better than despair. So let us be loving, hopeful and optimistic. And we'll change the world." You know, it just could work.

2 Goodbye, Mr. Jobs: The world's foremost gizmologist, Apple CEO Steve Jobs, submits his letter of resignation. Not sure if he sent it in via his iPhone, iPad, iPod or iMac. Other people get kicked upstairs; Steve ascends into the Cloud.

3 Goodbye, Mr. Gadhafi: Sense a theme here? Libyan totalitarian nutbar Moammar Gadhafi slips away from his compound and heads for the tunnels where he is still able to broadcast stirring messages to his followers (the few who aren't dead yet), exhorting them not to leave Tripoli to the "rats." He should talk.

4 Goodbye, Mr. Robertson: CTV's Lloyd Robertson, the dean of Canadian news anchors, retires Sept. 1. It's the end of TV news as we know it, but he can't stay up that late any more.

5 Goodbye, Sidney?: A lot of disturbing rumours are swirling around hockey superstar Sidney Crosby, still recovering from the effects of a pair of nasty concussions suffered last season. Some people worry that he'll never play again. Aw, it's all in his head.

6 Hello, Lady Gaga: The alien pop star passes Oprah as Forbes' most powerful female celebrity, but she's still only No. 11 on the big list, trailing the likes of No. 1 Angela Merkel (chancellor of Germany), No. 2 Hillary Clinton (U.S. secretary of state) and Charlotte Empey (my editor).

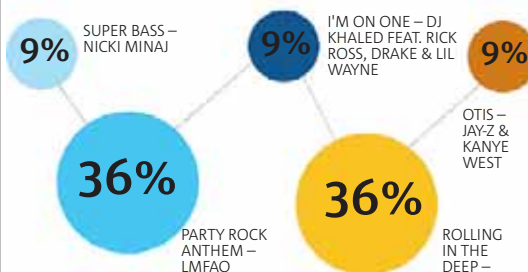

7 Welcome back, Carrie: Carrie Fisher, Princess Leia to a generation of smitten Stars Wars nerds, loses 50 pounds on Jenny Craig and vows to get back into that bikini she was forced to wear by Jabba the Hutt in Return of the Jedi. Now, if we could only get Jabba on Jenny Craig.

8 Look Out: It's Margaret Atwood! Somehow the mayor of Toronto and his bro (Rob and Doug, eh?) have made an enemy of Margaret Atwood. Doug wants to know: Who's Margaret Atwood? Just the world-famous author of 40 books, winner of the Booker Prize, whose writing the New York Times calls "chillingly brilliant." She has teamed up with eight other writers to launch the Why My Library Matters to Me contest. And she's steamed that you're trying to close libraries. You think Moammar Gadhafi has trouble?

JACK LAYTON. I have an idea for Mr. Layton's funeral Saturday.

I think it would be nice if all Canadians wear orange to recreate the orange wave in his honour and memory. Obviously, many Canadians are mourning the great and charming man he was more than the politician. By wearing orange, it will mean that we are wearing Jack a bit closer to our hearts. Please help me spread the message and see if we can recreate the orange wave one more time for Mr. Layton.

LINDA TACIANO
TORONTO

Jack Layton's political fight on behalf of all Canadians is not finished but only begun.

The man, his spirit, his drive to succeed is still alive; his dream for the New Democratic Party he loved so much will long inspire those who take up his battle to give all Canadians a fair and just federal government.

This was a man who dreamed an impossible dream; however the light of that dream still burns brightly in the NDP party he cherished, with much hope for the future.

Survival of the strongest stomach

Eskil Carlsson invited his neighbours this week for a taste of the 71-year-old brisket stored in a jar by his mother-in-law's family at the start of the Second World War.

But first, he tried it out on the cat. "When it survived, we all had a taste," Carlsson told Swedish media.

Gingerly, though, as the 70-year-old Carlsson shows in a video of him and his neighbours wrestling with the still well-sealed glass jar, then fishing out fragments of meat.

"It didn't smell bad, anyway. It was as if it had been meat from this week. I shouldn't exaggerate, though; it was no delicacy," he told The Local, an English-language Swedish news report.

The cat didn't look impressed, either.

Nor was Martin Bucknavage, a Penn State University food-safety professor.

"Would I eat it? Probably not. But the nice thing about low-acid canned food is it can last for years and years. Certainly you can tell the vacuum seal was still there."

Plot synopsis

Paul Rudd plays Ned, a Mr. Nice Guy unsuited for life outside of his organic farm. When he innocently sells marijuana to a uniformed policeman he is thrown in jail. Unfortunately in his absence his hippie girlfriend found a new boyfriend. His three sisters (Elizabeth Banks, Zooey Dechanel and Emily Mortimer) take turns housing him, but in each case his willingness to believe the best in people causes chaos.

Idiot Bro a smarty-pants

► Our Idiot Brother is a fun indie comedy that takes a jab at the neo-hippie movement ► Strong cast buoys a flimsy movie to make for a fun 90 minutes

Richard: Mark, Our Idiot Brother is a low key indie comedy with a much different feel from the movies that made Rudd famous. His Apatow years have been spent doing broad comedy in movies like The 40 Year Old Virgin, but this is more character based — and less funny. There are laughs here, but instead of going for the jokes Rudd is concentrating on playing the character and allowing the humour to flow naturally from him and the situations. Did that work for you?

Mark: Most definitely! I was worried — based on the title, the poster, the trailer, and the Apatow DNA — that this would be nothing but silly slapstick. But it turned out to be a nicely tuned comedy of manners about the clash between bourgeois and counterculture values. The irony of the title is that the Rudd character is anything but an idiot. Like the '80s movie Down and Out in Beverly Hills, the hippie outsider upsets the domesticity of those around him, but somehow improves everyone's lives in the process. Rudd is great, and so is the rest of the cast, don't you think?

RC: I thought so too. Banks, Dechanel and Mortimer each bring a different flavour to their roles as the sisters. Banks is a driven writer with sketchy ethics, Dechanel a free-ish spirit with commitment issues while Mortimer plays a mousy mom. They all stand in stark contrast to the innocence of their brother but their presence buoys, and gives heart to, the film's family first message.

MB: One thing I really liked about the film is that it completely nailed the Hudson Valley neo-hippie movement in all its charm and hypocrisy. It's a subculture ripe for satirizing, but it hasn't been done much until now, so it felt fresh. Deschanel's weird bohemian lifestyle also felt original and contributed to the indie feel of the film. But I have to admit, as much as I enjoyed watching it, it's a flimsy movie and it didn't stay with me.

RC: I sort of agree. I think it's a likeable comedy elevated by a strong cast who bring empathy to characters who, in less experienced hands, might not have had any.

MB: Only the last 10 minutes felt rushed, with characters changing their motivation for no discernible reason at all. It felt like some scenes had been edited out. But overall, it was a good way to spend 90 minutes in the dark.

Saldana: skinny girl with big guns

► Colombiana star thrives on action and adventure

NED
SCENE@METRONews.CA
MWN IN HOLLYWOOD

Zoe Saldana knows her guns. "I'm a .45 myself. A .22 is too wimpy for me," says the actress, who plays a skilled assassin in Colombiana. "I like the .9. It's something that I can manoeuvre, and because I have very small wrists it's a weight that I can sustain and the impact won't hurt me in my joints."

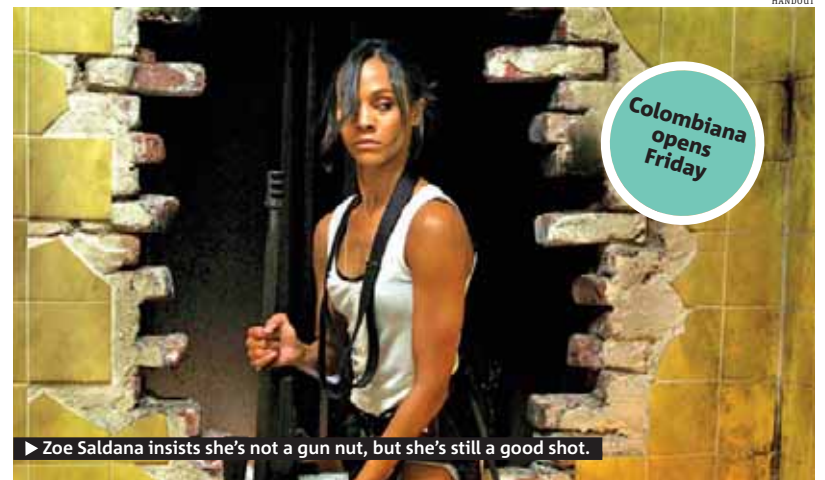

Saldana insists she's no gun nut. This expertise comes from Hollywood, after starring in a number of firearm-heavy titles like The Losers and Vantage Point.

No down time

So how does Zoe Saldana relax after a tough day of butt-kicking and gunplay on set? "Wine is perfect to unwind. Just a glass of wine, a bath and just... I don't know," she says. But the fact of the matter is the actress doesn't do a whole lot of relaxing. "I wish I could sugarcoat it for you, but when I'm working, I'm working. So yeah, I'll have a glass of wine and go out and have dinner with the cast and crew, but before I go to bed I'm reading those lines for the next day. I'm up 30 minutes before I have to get picked up ... and I'm on that treadmill because I want to make sure that I'm healthy and aware — naturally. I don't drink caffeine."

Colombiana, though, trumps them all in sheer firepower. But her character, Cataleya, is just as deadly without a gun in her hand — something Saldana says isn't so strange but still catches men off-guard. "I've been trained by people that were in the military, Marines, from Avatar to the Losers and now Colombiana, and they don't see gender when they see a threat across from them. They see a threat," she says. "So I would say watch out. Anytime you see a skinny girl and she's had any kind of military training, just don't blink. She could f—ing kill you."

Guns and fighting aside, Saldana admits the biggest draw for Colombiana was that it was produced and co-written by French filmmaker Luc Besson, someone of whom she's long been an admirer. "It's much more important for me to get to work with filmmakers that I've grown up loving and admiring, and Luc Besson is definitely one of the names that was on my bucket list — especially for the iconic femme fatale characters that he's created, because they're strong on the exterior but they're so fragile and broke on the inside," she says. "There were [other] offers, but Luc Besson took priority."

Already a fan of strong

Besson women in films like La Femme Nikita and the Fifth Element, Saldana looked elsewhere for research that might inform Cataleya, including the Girl with the Dragon Tattoo. But mostly she just watched TV a bunch. "I was watching a lot of animal behaviour because to me whenever she wasn't playing any of her roles to kill her targets ... she was such an omega wolf," she says.

Don't Be Afraid of the Dark

Genre: Horror

Director: Troy Nixey

Stars: Katie Holmes, Guy Pearce, Bailee Madison

Don't be Afraid of the Dark, a reimagining of a scary 1973 TV movie of the same name, and produced by shock maestro

Guillermo del Toro, sees a young girl attract the attention of mysterious creepy-crawlies with a taste for preteens. The movie's opening hour is chock-a-block with atmosphere and the hallmarks of gothic horror — like a groundskeeper who knows more than he is letting on, mysterious voices and hidden chambers — but is light on action. It all leads to a satisfying climax, however, featuring swarms of cool creatures and enough ferocious fun to make the slow start worthwhile.

Raising hell in their high heels

► Miranda Lambert's side project, Pistol Annies, aiming to shake things up

Angaleena Presley was doing what she usually does at 2 a.m. — sleeping — when the phone rang.

On the other end of the line was Ashley Monroe, who had been hanging out with her friend Miranda Lambert and, perhaps, having a cocktail or two.

"And I went, 'Hey, this better be important, by God,'" Presley recalled, her young son sleeping next to her.

"Turns out it was, huh?" Monroe said.

That call two-and-a-half years ago led to Pistol Annies, a concept group of sorts that's aimed at shaking things up and drawing attention to female singer-songwriters who sometimes get overlooked in the rush to find the next big star.

"I just happened to be the one that got successful," said Lambert, whose breakthrough 2009 album Revolution established her as one of country's elite acts, with Grammy, ACM and CMA trophies to go along with her recent status. "There's a whole bunch of us that you haven't heard yet."

The trio launched the aptly titled Hell on Heels this week. It's a deep country take on life for the modern woman, running from glam to glum and back again.

Lambert, dubbed Lone Star Annie, has been friends with Monroe (Hippie Annie) since soon after both signed with Sony several years ago. Monroe met Presley separately through her publisher.

Monroe decided that late night to put her two friends together after she and Lambert began talking about Presley's music. The friends started getting together to have fun. Alcohol might have been involved, though no one will confirm it. There was never talk of a concept group or even writing songs together. But eventually the guitars came out, and so did Pistol Annies.

Hell on Heels has an attitude for sure, best evidenced in the title song, the wonderfully tart Bad Example, and Lambert's ode to jerks (Trailer for Rent). But it's more remarkable for its reflection of the times and how poverty and unhappiness are just a decision or two away.

THE HARD LIFE OF ROCKSTARS

ALAN CROSS
SCENE
@METRONEWS.CA

Back on the 19th, Bono felt unwell. Decompressing from the massive 360 Tour at his villa in Eze-sur-Mer in the south of France, his heart began rattling around in his chest like a drum machine gone insane. The palpitations and discomfort were enough for his wife to rush him to Princess Grace Memorial Hospital in nearby Monaco. After being examined by a specialist and subjected to a battery of tests, he was sent home with orders to get some rest. Bono's 51-year-old body is telling him something: you can't be on a world tour for two years, pausing only for major spinal surgery and not expect to suffer some physical consequences.

The pace, the travel, the time zone shifts and the exertion of performing two hours a night takes its toll, even on the most pampered of rock stars.

Performing is hard physical work that gets only harder as you get older.

Much has been made about Meatloaf's requirement for a small tank of oxygen and a mask side-stage so he may revive his 63-year-old frame between songs.

That he suffers from asthma doesn't help, which contributed to his fainting at two shows earlier this month.

But Meatloaf's oxygen jones isn't unique. Many performers rely on hits of O₂ during shows.

Even younger musicians need assistance.

I was once backstage before a show by one of the biggest groups in the world.

They travel with a refrigerator-sized medical dispensary.

Then there's Paul McCartney.

Not that long ago, I saw him perform 22 consecutive songs before he took as much as a sip of water.

Not bad for 69.

Is J.Lo's ex at the root of Smiths' problems?

► Jada Pinkett had affair with Hawthorne co-star Marc Anthony: Rumours

Rumours are swirling that turmoil in Will Smith and Jada Pinkett Smith's marriage is over Jada allegedly having an affair with her Hawthorne co-star, Marc Anthony — both on screen and off, according to In Touch.

"There was a lot of Jada wanting to have love scenes with Marc Anthony," a source close to the production says.

"She definitely pushed for a story line that had Marc Anthony as a love interest. Never made sense to the network, but Jada pushed and they stopped pushing back."

Will and Jada have been quick to deny any reports of infidelity or separation.

Simon loves the needle

INJECTION. Simon Cowell's secret to staying healthy is a weekly IV injection of vitamins and minerals, he tells GQ. "When you have it done, it's an incredibly warm feeling," he says of the half-hour-long treatment. "You feel all the vitamins going through you. It's indescribable but very calming, and then it gives you energy for a good few days afterwards." Cowell, who says he was terrified of needles as a child, insists on having his arm frozen with a spray to numb any pain before each injection. "Everyone I've recommended it to, they've absolutely loved it," he says. "It sounds odd, but when you have it, it is fantastic. One girl came down and actually had two orgasms during the treatment."

Lohan compares herself to Marilyn

Lindsay Lohan is worried about her legacy and a kinship she feels for Marilyn Monroe.

"People in their mind have created who I am and act as if there is no real person inside of me. Just like Marilyn," she writes in the forward to Marilyn: Intimate Exposures, a new book about the late actress.

"Marilyn never wanted to be just a celebrity. Neither do I."

But according to Lohan, the real problem is that they just don't make films like they used to.

"I had always thought that movie stars were in films that would last forever in your mind. But now the films don't," she says.

"I don't want to be remembered as someone who just wanted to be photographed, who goes out at night, and gets in trouble."

Paris' show gets axed: Report

While reps for the show insist no decision has been made, the Oxygen network is reportedly dumping Paris Hilton's series, The World According to Paris, after one season, according to Vulture.

The show's first episode in June only brought in 400,000 viewers, and the numbers dropped off after that. While she's been posting to Twitter regularly about her social life, Hilton hasn't addressed the cancellation rumours.

Stone-cold crush for Carrey

Jim Carrey has a crush on Emma Stone and wants the whole world to know.

"Emma, I think you're all the way beautiful. Not just pretty, but smart and kind-hearted. And if I were a lot younger, I would marry you. We would have chubby little freckle-faced kids," the eccentric actor says in a video message to the 22-year-old actress posted on his official website.

"And every day, for the rest of your life, you would thank God that I was the appropriate age for you. But I'm not. I'm 49. I have lines on my face, sometimes a little grey in my beard, and it takes me a little bit longer to pee than it used to."

Stone is reportedly dating her Amazing Spider-Man co-star Andrew Garfield, so age isn't the only factor working against Carrey. ● METRO

Any way you slice it, the tomato is one confusing comestible. There's the whole identity crisis thing — is it a fruit or a vegetable? — and don't get us started on the tuh-MAY-to, tuh-MAH-to thing. It's enough to drive anyone ba-NAY-nas.

Here are two common misconceptions.

Fruit or vegetable?

Botanically speaking the tomato is a fruit, but horti-culturally and legally it is considered a vegetable.

Toxic tomatoes?

Tomatoes are part of the nightshade family, just like peppers and eggplants, which led some in the past to believe the fruit is poisonous. However, as we now know, tomatoes are harmless. And delicious

Meat meets its wine match

PETER ROCKWELL
LIQUIDASSETS@EASTLINK.CA
TWITTER: @THEREALWINEGUY

If I learned one thing during my travels in South America, it was that the Argentines love their barbecue.

They call it asado and in the wineries (especially those throughout its primary grape-growing region of Mendoza), the red wines have been crafted to match the charred influences of meats fresh from the fire.

Though cabernet sauvignon and merlot are widely planted, grapes like bonarda (which offers balanced ripe fruit) and tannat (a grape that owes its name to its tannic profile) are almost exclusively Argentinean.

Then there's malbec. Originally from France's Bordeaux region, its juice has become Argentina's hallmark. With upfront fruit and a spicy personality that can go from light and simple to a major bite of freshly ground pepper, malbec is a perfect match for grilled meats.

Catena Zapata's 2010 Alamos Malbec ($13.95 - $14.99) is a gusty mash of the heavier end of the spice trail. With a mouth coating flow of deep, dark fruit, it's one of the best red wine values on the shelf.

Serena throws wrench in U.S. Open

The biggest question heading into the U.S. Open draw was: Which highly seeded woman could be stuck facing Serena Williams in the third round? The answer: No. 4 Victoria Azarenka of Belarus.

"Poor, poor, poor Victoria Azarenka," seven-time major champion John McEnroe said at Thursday's draw ceremony in Flushing Meadows.

Azarenka was a Wimbledon semifinalist in July, as was No. 22 Sabine Lisicki of Germany, who could play Williams' older sister Venus in the second round.

Serena Williams is a three-time U.S. Open champion who leads all active women with 13 Grand Slam titles. Venus Williams is a two-time winner in

New York and owns a total of seven major singles trophies.

The Grand Slam tournament starts Monday.

After missing nearly a year of action with health problems, Serena Williams returned to the tour in June and won two of her four tournaments. She is seeded 28th for the U.S. Open.

Venus Williams, meanwhile, is ranked 36th and unseeded.

Looking at the latter stages of the men's field, No. 1 seed Novak Djokovic and Roger Federer were drawn to possibly meet in one semifinal, while defending champion Rafael Nadal and Andy Murray could meet in the other.

The five-time winner in lower-tier events will start the second round Friday in an unfamiliar spot near the top of an LPGA leaderboard.
